C.G.I.T. Mother And Daughter Banquet

A most delightful evening was spent at Knox United Church on Thursday last, when the C.G.I.T. girls entertained their mothers at a banquet. The color scheme of green and gold was artistically carried out in the table decorations, including place cards, programs, candles and flowers, making an exceptionally pretty display.

After a delicious supper all joined in a sing-song led by Mrs. Boorman. The C.G.I.T. president, Rita Scruton then welcomed the mothers on behalf of the group, following which each girl presented her mother with a delightful surprise, a hand-painted vase containing a daffodil and fern.

The theme for the evening's program was "Life's Highway." Mrs. McGhee gave an inspirational talk on "The Country Strange and New." Winnie Adhead made a suitable reply, taking for her subject, "Our Traveling Companions." A reminiscence of camp, "A Wards Fire" was given by Tillie Schwesinger. Mr. Mitchell's address, "A Light Unto My Path," was much appreciated.

The evening's program was closed with an impressive "Candle Lighting Ceremony" led by the girls' leader, Miss Alexa Clark.

It was an evening to be long re-

C.G.I.T. & Boys' Groups Hold Church Service

The evening service at the Knox United Church on Sunday last was conducted by the girls' and boys' groups of the C.G.I.T., Taxis and Trail Rangers. As in previous years the service was a very beautiful one, each member taking part doing splendidly.

The church was tastefully decorated in spring colors of yellow and green, the central feature being a picture of Jesus calling His disciples.

George Boorman, Taxis member was chairman, assisted by Maie Sinclair and Arthur Boorman. The members of the choir were several C.G.I.T. girls, who gave as their special number, "O, Jesus I Have Promised."

The theme of the service was "Following Jesus Today," the speakers being Grace Loader and Ed Carleton. These two capable young people clearly gave the meaning and the need of this call to the disciples of old and those of today.

Such a young people's service was truly an inspiration to all.

membered by all, as it was another milestone on "Life's Highway," at which mothers and daughters were drawn closer as "Comrades of the Road."

If you want the answer to this enigmatic being see "The Dark Horse" at the Didsbury Opera House tonight (Thursday). And don't forget the mighty spectacle, Saturday, "The Sign of the Cross."

Welcome Announcements.

The recent statement by Premier Bennett in the House of Commons in which he outlined the attitude of himself and his Government on the subject of reciprocal trade relations with the United States, and in which he declared that the United States was Canada's natural market, constitutes not only an announcement of great interest and importance, but it has the effect of removing, at least so far as the principle involved is concerned, this particular phase of the tariff question from the realm of partisan politics. Differences of opinion as to details of any such trade arrangement may exist or develop between the two great political parties in this country, but so far as the question of the desirability of such an arrangement, it has now been quite plain that there is no difference of opinion.

To all those who feel that the important question of the tariff should, as far as possible, be removed from the arena of partisan political controversy, this unanimity of view will be most gratifying, as well as a most hopeful sign that at no distant date a marked improvement in the trade relations of these two great countries, having so many things in common, and divided only by an imaginary boundary line, will be effected.

Premier Bennett made his momentous announcement when speaking to a resolution moved by a Liberal member, and which was worded as follows:

"That, in the opinion of this House, it is expedient that the Government of Canada re-open negotiations with the Government of the United States of America with a view of bringing about a satisfactory reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and the United States whereby the natural products of Canada, that is the products of the sea, the farm, the mines, and the forests, and including fish, lumber, wheat, cattle, etc., should have free entry into the United States in exchange for the admission of certain goods from the United States of America, which in the interests of both countries may be admitted into Canada, free from custom tariffs."

Almost equal in its importance to Premier Bennett's statement, is the announcement contained in press despatches that the new Administration at Washington, under the guidance of President Roosevelt, proposes to make overtures to the Canadian Government looking to the negotiation of such a trade agreement or treaty. If, indeed, such overtures have not already been tentatively made.

Canadians generally will welcome these new developments, and no doubt they will be received with greater goodwill, and with sincere hopes that success will attend such negotiations, than in the provinces of Western Canada. Unquestionably, the continent of North America is one economic unit, however it may be divided politically and nationally. Nature made it so geographically and climatically.

The United States supply Canada with many things we do not, and cannot, produce for ourselves, cotton, tropical and semi-tropical fruits, antiseptic cod, many articles of manufacture, to mention only a few items. On the other hand, the United States stands in need of enormous quantities of other natural products which Canada can supply in abundance. Why, then, should both countries erect barriers against the natural exchange of such commodities to the disadvantage of both?

Here in Western Canada we can raise tens of thousands of head of range cattle, but we are handicapped in disposing them for market, including the British market, and are at a distinct disadvantage in competing with the Argentine. But the United States raises enormous quantities of corn for feeding purposes. What is more natural than that Western Canada should supply thousands upon thousands of stocker cattle to the corn states to the south to be fattened for market? Both countries would profit thereby.

Why should the United States be forced to look for markets long distances inland in Ontario and Quebec, even in the West, with the rich markets of the great cities along the U.S. Atlantic seaboard right at hand and easily and cheaply reached by water transportation? Why should Ontario, lacking cod supplies of its own, be denied free and cheap access to the great codfisheries immediately to the south but in the United States? Why should either country cripple the natural flow of trade north and south, fighting geography in an uneconomical fashion, while striving for markets thousands of miles away?

It is now admitted, almost universally, that the troubles which today beset the world are almost entirely of our own making, the result of our own blindness and stupidity, and not the fault of an all-wise Providence nor the breakdown of the immutable laws of Nature?

Canada and the United States have set the world an object lesson for more than one hundred years of an unbroken boundary line thousands of miles in extent. We have shown the nations of the world how international relations should be conducted so as to avoid all physical warfare. Can we not also show the world, in its present time of distress, how international economic relations should be governed so as to avoid economic warfare?

Assuredly we can, if we will. And it is because we should do so that these announcements of the past few weeks are so welcome, so promising of great betterment for the people of both countries. And to us in Canada, especially welcome as indicating a unity of desire and policy on the part of all our political parties in the advancement of the common good and economic welfare of this Dominion.

A three-yearly census, shows 4,960 Great Britain has the highest tax-burdened men, women and children in the world; France comes second and Germany third.

Rich Gold Strike

New South African Field Opens Up
Great Possibilities

Another great gold strike possibly equal to past rushes which helped end former depressions, was described to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

One-eighth of the world's present gold production is the estimate, though not yet proven, capacity of this new field, the Consolidated goldfields, South Africa. This dazzling estimate was reported by F. W. Lee, supervising engineer, geophysical supervising engineer, geophysical section, United States Bureau of Mines, Washington.

It cites several weeks of reports in inside circles of New York engineers that the new South African field might produce enough gold to start the ball rolling toward world prosperity.

Lee told the story of how the new scientific "driving rods" the magnetometer, located the ore.

"The greatest outstanding achievements of the year," said Mr. Lee, "was made by the engineers in the Consolidated goldfields. Here the sub-outcrop of the main reef series was traced from the surface through properties of the Westward area, a distance of from 30 to 40 miles."

Another Use For Radio

Fever Machine Is Newest Treatment For Certain Diseases

A "fever machine" which treats disease by the power of radio waves to raise the temperature of the body was described before the American College of Physicians at Montreal.

It is a new application of radio, treating disease instead of sending messages, and was reported by Dr. Walter M. Simpson of Dayton, Ohio. The machine is used in treating diseases that are sometimes cured and often improved by producing artificial "fevers" in the body. Among these diseases are general paresis, a form of paralysis that attacks many insane persons, some forms of arthritis, a disease of the joints, and diseases that affect the bodily extremities, arms and legs, feet and hands.

The fever machine is a short-wave radio transmitter, which "broadcasts" 20-meter radio waves through the patient from large metal plates.

Orient Buying Wheat

Shipments From Canada This Season Total 834,011 Bushels

Steadily increasing in the Orient for wheat is instanced by the fact that Canada has shipped 8,414,011 bushels to China and Japan so far this season. This is 677,413 bushels greater than shipments at this time last year, and it is believed final figures will exceed last year's mark by more than a million bushels.

Bookings up to the end of March for the Orient are 595,666 bushels. Only the lower grades are wanted, and Australia, near at hand, has been getting the lion's share of the business.

Robe Proved Good Mascot

Gift Of Maori Chief Treasured By British Admiral

Admiral Sir Louis Halsey, controller and treasurer to the Prince of Wales, told the Authors' Club at London, England, of a New Zealand "kiwi" robe which he wore whenever he fought in action during the Great War.

The garment, a kind of kilt made of flax, was given to him by a Maori chief when he was in command of the battle cruiser "New Zealand." The "New Zealand" went on a cruise to the dominion. One chief, after being shown over the ship, gave him the "kiwi" robe and asked him to promise that whenever he took the ship into action he would wear it. He told him that it had been worn by his forebears in war, but that it would never be required in that country again.

On August 28, 1914, when the action of Heligoland was fought, Sir Lionel said he wore the robe in the coming tower, and he added that the "New Zealand" never received a scratch during the fighting.

After this the garment was looked upon as a mascot. On Jan. 24, 1915, the "New Zealand" fought the German ship "Blucher," which was sunk. Again he wore the "kiwi" with the same result, the "New Zealand" receiving no damage whatever.

In May, 1915, he left the "New Zealand" to Captain, later Admiral, Sir John Green. He handed over the "kiwi" to his successor, and in the Battle of Jutland Captain Green wore it when he took the ship into action. Two ships in his own line were blown up and sunk, but the "New Zealand" received practically no damage whatever. After the war Sir Lionel added, the garment was returned to him and it was one of his most treasured possessions.

Long Gas Line

Proposed To Build Gas Line From Alberta To Coast

The findings of the Alberta conservation commission is expected to have a bearing upon the plans of oil syndicates to construct a pipe line through to the coast to supply the cities of Vancouver in British Columbia, and of Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma in the state of Washington, with natural gas, it was stated by William C. Fisher, of Calgary.

"This is not a visionary project," said Mr. Fisher. "The findings of the conservation commission will determine the extent of the gas pressure in the Turner Valley area."

If it is proved that the field can guarantee a 20-year supply, there should be nothing to hinder the proposed gas pipeline to the coast for the supply of cheap natural gas."

Retina Of Eye Affected By Any Abnormal Condition

Practically every disease common to man, says Dr. Clarence R. Ellis, of the Ohio State University applied optics department, can be diagnosed by an examination of the retina of the eye.

Any abnormal condition, he explained, affects the retina immediately, particularly such diseases as brain tumors, heart trouble, cancer and inflammation of the liver. The chief cause of eye trouble, he added, is the use of too powerful light bulbs in reading lamps.

Electric Eye Records

Activity Of Housewife Information Obtained By U.S. Bureau Of Home Economics

For each member of her family, the average housewife makes 18 trips a day to the kitchen sink, according to a February issue of the American Journal of Home Economics.

Each time she goes to the sink, the article shows, she spends, on an average, 30 minutes.

Thus, the housemaker in a family of five will average 90 trips daily to the sink and will work there for an hour and a half.

A photo-electric eye was used to help record every trip made, together with the time spent at the sink. The U.S. Bureau of Home Economics was asked to make this study by the chairman of the committee on kitchens of the president's conference on home building and home ownership, and it received outside co-operation.

An analysis of the study shows that the Washington, D.C., housewives in whose kitchens the photo-electric eye was placed, spent from 38 to 152 minutes at the sink each day, while the number of trips varied from 32 to 217. The reasons for such variations, according to the article, can be determined only by more detailed studies. The definite factual data hitherto unavailable in such studies should make possible more definite conclusions as to the comparative efficiency of different types of kitchen arrangement, Dr. Stanley says.

World Trade Of Britain Continues To Expand, Despite Existing Conditions

Undeterred by adverse world conditions and by the prolonged period of difficulty through which it has passed, industrial Britain goes steadily ahead receiving and filling orders for foreign account, often in the face of severe competition from other nations, and thus continuing to build up Britain's reputation as a centre for the production of superior manufactured articles in widespread demand.

Of decided interest to Canadians is the announcement made by representatives of the Welsh tinplate trade of a record order from the American Can Company, operating works in Montreal and Vancouver, for a million boxes of tinplate valued at $700,000. The firm receiving this order controls 20 tinplate works in South Wales, in addition to six iron and steel plants, and already the effects of the contract are being reflected in increased activity in local industrial circles.

A Manchester plant has recently completed a contract for eight heavy mixed-traffic locomotives for service on the Chinese Government Railways and the locomotives, fully erected, have been shipped in a vessel specially equipped for such consignments. Locomotives of this description have been supplied to China by United States firms in the past.

Four electric locomotives, the largest yet produced in Europe, are about to be shipped from the Armstrong, Whitworth works near Newcastle-on-Tyne to South America for use on the Buenos Aires Great Southern Railway.

Two engineering firms are reported to have jointly secured a contract for gasoline storage tanks which are to be erected at Haifa, Palestine, for the Iraq Petroleum Company. The contract, industrial Britain reports, is worth £100,000 and was secured in the face of world-wide competition.

From Dutchess county comes word of the receipt of orders from Czechoslovakia and Holland for coal-cleaning equipment representing a total value of more than £100,000.

Orders from Persia for textile machinery to the value of £100,000 have been received by Lancashire firms. These orders follow the announcement that the Shah of Persia has given instructions that the machinery for a number of spinning and weaving mills that are being established in that country must be ordered from Great Britain.

Another big contract has been placed by the Russian trade agency with a Manchester firm for a railway axle plant which is to be installed by the Soviet Government with an annual output of 270,000 axles. The same firm has recently completed orders for the Russian machine tools order, and the latest one was obtained in the face of severe competition from Germany.

A Bolton concern of machine-tool makers reports the successful conclusion of negotiations with Canadian buyers for various types of tools formerly purchased from the United States. The order, it is stated, runs into thousands of pounds in value.

Thus, in hard times as well as in good times, the British industrialist goes steadily forward capturing orders for the provision of machinery, or other articles to foreign countries, notwithstanding severe competition from other nations. His business surrounds tariff and other barriers and the world continues to be his market. That he is enabled to receive his share of foreign orders is principally due to the quality of his output, for it is universally recognized that British goods are satisfactory goods and in spite of great temptations, the British industrialist has consistently declined to put an inferior article on the market.

Those who are accustomed to argue that Britain is dead industrially and otherwise fail to take into account the energy with which the British manufacturer continues to seek an outlet for his goods and the market which these goods command in comparison and on account of their inherent quality, in spite of world conditions in world trade.

Need Paid Hunters

To Protect Game In Northern Manitoba From Timber Wolves

With timber wolves increasing in numbers and fox pelts being brought into The Pas for bonanza, northern Manitobans say that the only way to save the game in the Moose Lake country, will be by means of at least two paid hunters. It is learned at The Pas, Manitoba, that only 51 timber wolf pelts were brought there for bounty last year. This does not represent the total number killed, of course, as some pelts go right through to the cities. But the number of wolves killed was small in proportion to the wolf population.

Tom Lamb, Moose Lake trapper, has found a number of deer cut down by wolves and left to rot. On a recent trip, he found a beautiful animal that had been killed by wolves. It had been chewed slightly at the throat. Lamb marked the spot intending to bring the deer to The Pas, where he intended to place it on exhibition. On returning a couple of days later, he found the passing Indians had taken part of it for dog feed.

Batiste, prints, linen, seersucker and dimity are nice mediums. Besides cottons, wool crepe and wool jersey can be used for the jumper or with a tubular guimpe.

Rapid Growth Of Insanity

Psychology Professor Claims Canada and U.S. Lead World

Canada and the United States in equal per capita, are leading the world in numbers of insane according to C. E. Roy, B.Sc., M.A., M.D., M.Ps., professor of psychology and psychiatry at the State University of Amsterdam, Holland, who sailed from Saint John after completing an independent study of psychiatric cases in North America, during which he was attached to the St. Joseph's Hospital of Victoria in B.C. for two months.

"The rapid growth of insanity is due to a large extent from the depression with its resultant financial worries and the loss of the emigrant ideal." "The fast life of this country and the United States is also one of the main causes. Young girls are not heeding the demands of health. They stay up late at night. Get little sleep and rush off to the office, heedless of breakfast. It just can't be done."

Bring Low Prices

Portraits Of Earl Of Egnon's Family Are Auctioned In London, England

Nearly 50 of the Alberta rancher Earl of Egnon's family portraits were sold recently at Christie's famous auction parlors in London, England.

Two years ago when some of the old masters belonging to the estate were sold, a Reynolds' portrait alone fetched 2,000 guineas, about $15,000 at par. Today 50 portraits realized a total of little more than a tenth of that sum.

Words of such half-forgotten painters as Lely, Kneller, Hudson, Hobday and Joseph were put up in one lot, bringing about a pound each. Four portraits by Slater, including one of Spencer Percival, the murdered premier, brought only 12 guineas. Others followed at an average price of 12 guineas a dozen.

Street Purposes Have Changed

New Planning Necessary Opinion Of President Of British Architects

London hears a novel analysis of modern street traffic problems by Sir Raymond Unwin. The president of the Royal Institute of British Architects says street purposes have entirely changed. We run what are practically locomotives at locomotive speed on highways meant for horses and pedestrians. A complete new planning must come. It will expedite traffic through streets, on which are no shops, and will assure safety of adults and children on foot. The pedestrians will move leisurely in parallel streets which will have shops but no motor traffic. Christian Science Monitor.

A Wesley Letter

Great Preacher Gave Counsel On The Subject Of Marriage

A letter from John Wesley is a correspondent who had apparently asked the great preacher, for counsel on the subject of marriage was sold at Sotheby's in London, England, for $125.

The letter is addressed to "Mr. Peter Christian, at Ripton, Craven, Yorkshire" and its contents are as follows:

"My dear brother: A person with all the qualifications you mention is not every day to be met with. I did not recollect such a one at present. If I meet with or think of one I will send you word. I advise you not by any means to entangle yourself with a predestinarian. A sensible, well-tempered woman, fearing God though not much awakened, is far preferable. Wishing you may have light from God in that and all things, I am, your affectionate brother, J. Wesley."

Rice Growers Face Ruin

Empire Agreements Have Destroyed Trade For British Guiana

About 60,000 of the inhabitants of British Guiana are faced with ruin as a result of the Empire trade agreements reached at Ottawa, according to advices received at Port of Spain, Trinidad, giving the views of the Demerara Rice Marketing Board. Guiana formerly had a preference for its rice in the British market, but under the Ottawa agreements India gets the same rates and has been driving out Guiana rice. An appeal has been made to London for protection of the former market, but the authorities have been informed that no discrimination can be made. About half the population of Guiana is dependent on rice growing.

Australia Using Own Currency

A train of ten cars loaded with English silver coins from all parts of South Africa will be sent to the mint in Pretoria within a few weeks. The shipment will be the result of the decision of the Union of South Africa to use its own currency. The total to be withdrawn is estimated to be the equivalent of $8,250,000, but the intrinsic value of the silver is less than $2,000,000. The total number of coins to be withdrawn is between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000.

A bore is one who has nothing to say and keeps on saying it.

The sky schedule for 1933 will be of great interest to star gazers, according to the American Naturalist Association.

Six periodic comets are due for return engagements. Two ellipses of the sun are on the schedule also.

Then too, Mars, which is probably of more popular interest than any other planet because of its possibilities as an abode for life and its fascinating and varied surface markings which indicate seasonal changes, came to perihelion on March 1.

Perihelion is that point of the orbit of a planet or comet which is nearest to the sun. This is one of the less favorable oppositions, since the planet is 62,700,000 miles distant from the earth at nearest approach on that date.

Nevertheless astronomers interested in the physical phenomena of the planets are keeping this little neighboring world under scrutiny for some weeks and we may expect to hear more than usual about the ruddy planet Mars within the next few months.

The comets returning are Brorson, Pons-Winnecke, De Vico-Swift, Giacobini, Finlay and Holmes. The first was last seen in 1879 and is due to come to perihelion again in November.

The Pons-Winnecke comet has a period of nearly six years and was discovered in 1819. It is due to return again in May.

Giacobini's comet was discovered by that astronomer at Nice in 1900. It is due at perihelion in June. Finlay's comet is also due in June. Holmes' comet was discovered in 1892. It is due in August.

There will be two eclipses of the sun, both annular. An annular eclipse is one in which the extreme portions of sun and moon are such that the moon fails completely to cover the solar disk and there is a thin annular ring of light surrounding the dark lunar disk at the time that would correspond to mid-totality of a solar eclipse.

The first eclipse occurred on Feb. 24. The partial phase was visible in the southern and central part of South America, all of Africa, except the extreme northwestern part, the western part of the Mediterranean, Greece, Asia Minor, Persia and Arabia.

The next eclipse will occur on Aug. 21. The partial phase will be visible in central and eastern Europe and northeastern Africa at sunrise, later in the morning, or near midday, in Siberia, central and southern Asia, and in the afternoon in the Philippines and East Indies.

Status Of The Metis

Government Spokesman Says Half-Breeds Not Wards Of Dominion

Half-breeds are not wards of the Dominion Government, said H. T. G. Murphy, head of the Department of Indian Affairs. Half-breeds were citizens of the provinces in which they lived, he said, with the same rights and responsibilities as the whites. Their care was a provincial matter.

In the Alberta House it was stated that half-breeds in that province were impoverished. Premier J. E. Brownlee said it had not been decided whether the Dominion or provincial administration was responsible for the care of the half-breeds. It might be necessary for the courts to decide.

The impoverished Indians are wards of the Dominion Government. They have not the rights of the white citizens. The Dominion Government is responsible that they do not suffer want.

Auto Exports Increase

Increased sale of Canadian automobiles abroad is the brightest spot noted in the February business summary issued by the Bank of Montreal. Greater sales were attained abroad throughout the whole of 1932 and January's figures reveal expansion of the foreign market is continuing.

Household Accidents.

From 450 to 500 deaths in Alberta each year are due to violence, and many of these occur in or about the home, without special outside hazard.

How many of these are truly accidents? The dictionary says: "An accident is an event that happens without expectation or foresight," but when one neglects an icy flight of steps, or leaves a tub of scalding water on the floor where babies are toddling about, it does not require much forethought to anticipate serious or even fatal results.

Regarding some of the other common household "accidents," the following precautionary "don'ts" might well be considered:

DON'T leave broken glass or sharp-edged tools where they are available to little children.

DON'T leave poisons or medicines containing poisons outside a locked poison cabinet.

DON'T leave loaded firearms where they are accessible to individuals inexperienced in their use, and don't leave explosives available to children.

DON'T remain in a closed garage with the engine of your car in operation, and don't put fresh coal in the stove without first opening the direct draughts.

DON'T allow slippery surfaces, loose stair-treads or loose boards in sidewalks to remain without attention.

DON'T maintain bare wires in electric appliances.

DON'T maintain unguarded open fires.

DON'T fail to have that rickety old stepladder repaired before the spring-cleaning.

"THINK SAFETY FIRST"

Shipping Whole Train.

The "Royal Scot," outstanding British railroad passenger train, and the pride of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway, will be shipped in its entirety to the Chicago World Fair, which opens June 1st. The engine and eight cars will also tour Ontario and Quebec centres under its own power after the exhibition. On June 1st 1862 the departure time of the Royal Scot as the morning express from London to Glasgow of 10 a.m. was standardized and since then has been left at that hour without a break. During 71 years of unbroken service the Royal Scot expresses have covered between them 17,000,000 miles. The train will be representative of the standard of British workmanship, famous the world over.

Beatty of the C.P.R.

As Montrealeers Know Him
Reprinted from Montreal Daily Herald

Ed. Beatty is a quiet, unassuming, back who studied law, but by a twist of fate, became a railway president.

Though he couldn't make the first string on the Varsity gridiron squad, he had no difficulty with the C.P.R. and has played regularly ever since. They say it was Shaughnessy's meddling that turned the trick (Lord S. not jolly).

He is probably the shyest man in Canada.

The ladies admire him because he wears his hat over one eye and walks with a quarterback swagger. The fact that he is a bachelor and apparently intends to remain one provides a second element of mystery. He is said to keep feminine hearts in a state of flutter.

Business men like him because he talks straight from the shoulder and has an uncanny talent for getting at the core of the most intricate problem.

The man in the street respects him because he preaches The Gospel of True Canadianism.

Politicians hawn on him because he is the boss of the C. P. R.

The Prince of Wales is another citizen who thinks Beatty is "all right," and His Royal Highness is always ready to prove it by officiating at the launching of a new C. P. R. ship.

Ordinary people respect him highly, and are sorry his railway is having a hard time.

As a youth he wanted to be a judge, but Fate intervened and sent him a job in the C. P. R.'s legal department. Young Beatty refused to regard this as his life-work, but ultimately had to decide in a hurry when the late Lord Shaughnessy sent for him and asked him to be a Vice-President.

Here is one version of what took place:

Beatty said "No!"

"Tom" Shaughnessy fixed the young attorney with a stern eye and exclaimed, "My God, Beatty? Do you want to be a mere lawyer all your life?" Young Beatty smiled and took the job.

Some people think Mr. Beatty is hard to reach and tales are told of citizens who wait for weeks for the call to conference. Nevertheless, he is the easiest man in the country to talk to, provided you can crash the outer office.

He is one of the few leading citizens who go in for Good Works in a Big Way without thought of publicity or praise. Not long ago he was the mother of an ex-boy's home youth who had lost his job in the States, was destitute and needed trifling loans in despair.

phoned to E. W. The Chairman and President of the C.P.R. came to the phone in person, discussed the case with the harassed mother, told her not to worry and instructed the C. P. R. official nearest to the boy to slip him back to his home, paying the fare out of his pocket. These are the things which have won him a reputation for kindness and humanity.

He was born at Thorold, which Ontario people will tell you is situated in the Garden of Canada. He attended several schools in Toronto, and ultimately scratched his way into, through and out of the Ontario Bar. That was in 1901 and almost at once he went into the C.P.R.'s law department.

He stayed there for thirteen years before becoming the company's General Counsel. In 1916 he was elected to the Board. In 1918 they made him President, when Lord Shaughnessy dropped one of his two portfolios. Six years later he added the title Chairman to his letterhead. Since then he has held both jobs and has had plenty of worries on his hands.

He thinks co-operative management will solve the railway problem. He does more travelling than many salesmen. Today you will see him in Calgary. Next Tuesday he will be in Montreal. On Wednesday he will appear before the Railway Commission in the Capital. On Thursday you can talk with him by long distance to the Empress of Britain, outward bound. Wherever he goes he carries his work under his hat. When times were good it used to be written that he had the Biggest Industrial Job in The World. The job today is probably just as big but infinitely more arduous.

His continued good repute is largely due to the idea that has got about that he is honest, honorable and taking him by and large, as representative a citizen of Canada as can be found between the two oceans.

And there is plenty of evidence to support the charge.

Cattle Men May Benefit By $150,000

Based upon present prices, the decision of the Dominion government to peg the value of the British pound sterling at $4.60 will put $150,000 more into the pockets of Alberta cattle exporters if they ship 15,000 head this year, according to estimates made by provincial government officials.

Officials figure that there will be an increased return to the producer of at least one cent a pound, which means $10 to $12 more for cattle weighing 1,000 or 1,200 lbs.

Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture, in making further comment upon the Dominion government scheme to "peg" the pound sterling by creating a stabilization fund, suggested there should be a survey of the quantity of the livestock now out of the hands of the primary producers.

"I presume that the Dominion government will or should consider ways and means of getting a 'pull-back' on goods now in the hands of processors," said the minister. "It could levy this amount to an extent that would be commensurate with the advantage these abattoirs or packing plants will receive through the guaranteed value of the British pound."

Every Cheque To Bear Stamp.

No longer will bank clerks be annoyed by cheque writers querying them as to how large a cheque must be to require a stamp. Under the recent budget provisions all cheques, no matter how small, must have at least a 3-cent excise tax affixed.

The only exemption is in the case of cheques issued by butter and cheese factories to producers of milk and cream.

Roll Your Own and Pay More.

The cigarette smoker who rolls his own will contribute to the treasury under the new budget provisions to the extent of 2 cents for each pack of 100 papers or less, and at the rate of 10c per 100 for cigarette "filters."

This tax will not apply on papers and fillers used by cigarette manufacturers.

Paint and Powder Will Cost More.

Keeping sweet, clean and beautiful will cost more in Canada today. The new budget places a 10 per cent excise tax on all articles, materials and preparations "commonly or commercially known as toilet articles," for use in connection with the care of the human body, whether for "cleansing, deodorizing, beautifying, preserving or restoring."

WEEKLY JOKE

A professor was accosted by a dirty little bootblack:

"Shine, sir?"

The kind professor was disgusted by the dirt on the boy's face:

"I don't want a shine, my lad, but if you'll go and wash your face I'll give you a quarter."

"Righto, guv'nor," replied the boy, as he made for the neighboring fountain. Soon he returned looking much cleaner.

"Well, my lad," said the professor, "you've earned your quarter, here it is."

"I don't want your quarter, guv'nor," replied the boy, "you 'ung on to it and git yer 'air cut."

A Featherweight Airplane

Non-Moving Machine Is Remarkably Easy To Handle

Britain sees remarkable results achieved with a slow-moving, featherweight airplane. This new type, which may indicate the coming of "flying for all," is designed by C. H. Lowrey. A woman beginner recently made a flight after half an hour's instruction, the instructor giving her orders from the ground. After three hours in the air the pupil was able to pass the tests for her "A" certificate. The plane carries only a 6-horsepower motor-cycle engine. The top speed is 30 miles, and the top height is that it lands at the "standard" speed of 15 miles an hour.

Tired Of Depression Talk

Woman Mining Recorder Returns North Where People Do Not Grumble

Tired of talk of depression which she has continually encountered in the cities, Mrs. F. Muncester, British Columbia's only woman mining recorder, started the return to Squaw Creek, near the boundary of the Yukon and Alaska. "At Squaw Creek," she says, "things were never exactly prosperous, but folks take things as they are and never grumble. Why, they don't even know there's a depression. Things go on just the same."

Mrs. Muncester took in a team of eight dogs and supplies and she plans to make the trail to Squaw Creek before the ice thaws. Her goal is reached by way of Haines on the United States side and Elwood Valley, a former Mount Police outpost.

"As a matter of fact, conditions are better at Squaw Creek now than ever before," says Mrs. Muncester. "Most of the people are trappers, with about one cattle man to five Indians. There's not much money in fur these days, but gold was discovered up there not long ago and the miners are making from $8 to $15 a day in some places, with absolutely no place to spend their money."

Fish Cargo By Air

Former Two-Day Trip Now Takes Half An Hour

Within half an hour after white fish are caught in the lakes of northern Manitoba they are delivered to a point by aeroplane on the Hudson Bay Railway 35 miles away, for transit from this point by rail to cities in Canada and the United States where they are in demand. Formerly the 35-mile journey by horse outfits and trailers took two days over rough trails.

The inland fisheries of Canada are among the country's most valuable assets. The fish caught in large quantities for the commercial market in Manitoba come from Lake Winnipeg, Lake Winnipegosis, Lake Manitoba and the smaller lakes. White fish and pickerel are the chief fish caught, but pike, herring, goldeye and several other varieties are plentiful.

Price Of a Newspaper

Cost of Production Much More Than Readers Pay

A valued subscriber to the Globe has raised a point which, perhaps is in the minds of many people when he asked why the price of newspapers remains the same as before the drop in general price levels.

Readers must realize that the small amount asked for a copy of a daily paper bears no relation to the cost of producing it. It is merely a nominal sum, which, in the case of a paper like the Globe, does not pay for the cost of the white paper used. It is unnecessary to refer to the cost of handling, delivery and postage, or to the fact that it carries news costing thousands of dollars to collect.

The Sinclair Reformer recently illustrated the difficulties under which newspapers in general are operating by receding weeklies which have ceased publication and others which have reduced their size. "Such instances as those," it comments, "should go far toward dispelling the impression that newspapers suffer less from the depression than the average business. As the Bowmanville Statesman remarks, this false impression may be due to the high standards being maintained by the newspapers to create that optimistic spirit so characteristic of editors. The fact is that the publishing business is among the hardest hit."

Despite the fall in prices all around, the newspaper is still the cheapest thing on the market, Toronto Globe.

Artists Very Seldom Have Beautiful Hands

Photos Show Them Strong and Capable But Not Decorative

The idea that hands exhibit more character than faces, and that artistic hands are invariably soft, slender and graceful, is nothing but a snare and a delusion, Mrs. Alma Reed says. Mrs. Reed opened an exhibition in New York of more than 150 photographs of hands of famous men and women, actresses, playwrights, writers, painters, politicians and housewives.

"The hands of famous actresses," she said, "are almost universally beautiful. Long, slender fingers, meticulously cared for nails and smooth contours are characteristic. Their hands are decorative, as they should be. But when it comes to musicians, writers, sculptors, male or female, the rule does not hold. Their hands are apt to be strong, capable, yes, but not necessarily beautiful."

Pulp and Paper Industry

Operated On Sound Economic Lines

It Would Regain Former Place

When prosperity returns, it should be the task of both Government authorities and those who direct the destiny of the pulp and paper industry to work for an effective control of development, in order that the evil of overproduction may be avoided and the industry allowed to expand in response to normal demands not to artificial stimulus. It is thoroughly rehabilitated and operated on sound economic lines. There is no reason why it should not regain its former place, but the danger from the American schemers is written plain. Looking After Draft Horses

Soviet Plan Vacations and Fattening Diet Before Spring Work

Millions of horses in the Soviet Union will receive long vacations and special fattening diets under government orders issued for the reconditioning of draft animals before the spring grain sowing. All horses are to be examined. Weak animals will be relieved of work. Horses in the principal grain regions, regardless of their health, will get three weeks' vacation before sowing begins. Heavy mortality among horses due to overwork and undernourishment is responsible for the new orders.

Diesel Engine Travels Quickly With Small Amount of Fuel

Flashing over the rails at 65 miles an hour, the first Diesel electric train ever used on an English main line had a successful trial on the 113-mile run from London to Birmingham.

Five minutes ahead, puffing clouds of smoke and steam, sped the regular London-Birmingham flyer, but the Diesel train travelled just as fast and poured along smoothly and almost noiselessly. It required only 25 gallons of fuel, costing a total of seven shillings (about $1.20 at current exchange) for the journey.

The trip opened startling possibilities for the hard-pressed British railway companies, which have been keeping to steam for a century because of the cheapness of British coal. Recently the Southern Railway tried a new departure, electrifying the main line from London to Brighton, but at a heavy initial cost and after three years' work.

Not only is the coal industry worried by the success of the Diesel train but the advocates of electrification are beginning to wonder whether the Diesel storage battery system is not cheaper and better fitted to British conditions.

World's Brains Still Busy

Someone Is Always Thinking Of New Things For Invention

In 1813, a current magazine article reveals, an official of the United States patent office resigned because "everything possible had been invented."

Since this gentleman left his post in the snug belief that the world was a finished product, the world's brains have invented the sewing machine, the typewriter, the electric locomotive, the air brake, wireless telegraphy, internal combustion engines, airplanes, cash registers, incandescent lamps, motion pictures and about a million and a half other devices which we now consider commonplace.

SHE WAS GETTING FATTER

Now Down To Normal

"I was putting on flesh very rapidly," writes a married woman, "and also suffering from constipation, and was very liverish. Three months ago a friend advised me to take a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in hot water every morning. I have kept this up regularly ever since, although I have been down to my normal weight (126 lbs.) for several weeks. I never felt better in my life, and I intend to carry on with Kruschen always. Several of my friends have remarked how slim I was getting and how well I was looking. After my having told them how it was done, they are doing the same." (Mrs.) D.H.

Overweight arises frequently because the system is loaded with unexpended waste, like a furnace choked with ashes and soot. Allowed to accumulate, this waste matter is turned into layers of fatty fat. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the stagnant and poisonous matter that clogs the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life!

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We will send you a generous supply of "GIANT" packages which make it easy for you to receive our famous Kruschen. Open the trial bottle first, put it on the table, and then, after you have used the Kruschen, try everything he claims it does. The regular bottle is still as good as new. Take a look. CHAPTER VI.—Continued.

A question came from Joyce:

"He and Elizabeth have decided definitely, then, Bill?"

"Yes. She's waiting for him to come for her or send for her. They've made plans to be married in Edmonton and have their honeymoon in the Selkirk and then go on over to Victoria."

Joyce asked one last question. She asked it calmly, without faltering or even pausing on the precipice edge.

"Did Elizabeth say that, or did Alan?"

"Alan said it. I overheard them, that night he left. They planned it together, then in his cabin."

Joyce was aroused by old Dad Pence calling for her. Raising her head from her arms she looked around. Groggily she realized that she was there on the putting rack, snuggled with cold with a cold that was more than physical.

Down had come. The dark hours had passed. It took her moments to realize. Time had stood still for her since she told Bill good-bye.

Before going up the river bank she had the presence of mind to go down to the water edge and bathe her face and hands and smooth back her hair.

She went back to the trading store with old Pence, and prepared breakfast for him. Over his breakfast, old Pence began chattering again at the "story-stick" he was carving these days. The stick was a long-standing amulet of his, for with his razor-knife, six-bladed knife, he was carving the story of his life. And he was going about it in earnest, carving steadily every day. It was as though he had some thin fore-knowledge of the lucky.

Noticing Joyce's exceeding paleness and her exhaustion, he bade her: "Now you got to go on 'real, gut."

"I'll lend to th' furs this mornin', if anybody comes."

Joyce went into her room. It seemed so cold; she could not get warm, the chill seemed to have pierced her through and through. She kindled a fire in her small sheet-iron stove and put in wood, and then lay down on the bed.

From the dresser Alan's picture was looking down at her. She did not glance away, but looked at it steadily, as she lay there so motionless and still.

The exhaustion that had drained her had left her very quiet of mind. She could think clearly, in thoughts precise and rational. . . .

You fought this battle once, Joyce, and you won it; and then you handed the sword back to your enemy and gave him power over you again. When Bill first told you last fall of Alan's engagement—do you remember the heartbreak of those weeks, Joyce? You finally rose above it, you conquered. But then you permitted yourself to hope again. When Alan merely came past here on a patrol, after staying away from you all winter, you went wild with hope.

Last night Bill came to you once again; and after he left, you collapsed there at that rock Joyce, don't lay yourself open to agony such as that. You must forget Alan Baker. You must, you must! You cannot turn this way or that; you cannot evade it. You must walk that path. You must never again look back. You have been punished for looking back, and your punishment has been terrible. In self-preservation you must forget Alan Baker. . . .

As she lay there gazing up at Alan's picture and seeing her course so clearly, it seemed to Joyce that if she could destroy his image there on the dresser, if only she had the courage to do that, it would be a symbol of destroying his image in her heart.

After a little while she got up from the bed; and going over to the dresser, began taking out of it all of Alan's letters to her. They dated back across six years, addressed to her here, at her college, at Ottawa. Pack by pack they went into the stove.

There was good augury for Joyce in the firm and unhesitant way she set about burning them.

He had given her more than a few pictures: a costly old-fashioned lavender which had been his mother's; a miniature hope chest of Indian-silk kerchiefs which had been the envy of her college friends; a gold-and-silver hunting knife; a wrist watch for graduation present, and a dozen less expensive gifts. Joyce laid aside the lavender to send to Elizabeth; but the other gifts she destroyed by fire. She took his picture from the dresser, and burned it.

Afterwards she sat by the table writing a long letter to her bureau chief in Ottawa, telling him frankly about her father, her hope to see her father, and then to bring him over to Ottawa with her; and asking him if his former promise of a position whether she wished to return was still good.

At noon, hours later, when old Pence looked in, he was pleased to find her plunged into a dreamless sleep. The secret worry he had noted on her face this last week seemed to have gone now. Her features were pale, but there was a look of peace on them, of some strange spiritual peace at heart.

CHAPTER VII.

By Lone Camp Fires.

That gray dawn when he said good-bye to Joyce at Fort Endurance, Baker set off alone on a journey of a thousand miles. Instead of heading north-east toward the Thut-Azzah where the bandits were hiding, he turned his course and directed away from them and started south up the Mackenzie. He did not delude himself about his plan. It was little better than a desperate gamble, and he knew it. But the usual man-hunting methods were useless against those criminals; and his plan was the first thing in the world they would be expecting.

By travelling in his own motor canoe, depending entirely on his own resources, he expected to cut ten days from the fastest time of the fur-company boats.

In those lonely hours, as he stared at the stars and the moon in the hills, it was borne in upon Alan that he had forever cut himself off from life here in this North country. He felt as though he had been torn up by the roots. The system he had founded at Fort Endurance had been his own creation. He had been a builder in his own right. From the ground up, Fort Endurance belonged to him. He and Curt and Jimmy had cut the very timber for barracks and cabins. The work had been his particular work in life. "Sergeant Baker of Endurance" stood for something. There was but one such man in the Dominion. Now he was cut off from it, an alien of lost identity, never to be a part of it, the guiding genius of it, again.

On the third day he met a lone-fire Indian, a young Chipewyan wandering aimlessly, with some secret personal tragedy preying on him. Alan took him into the motor canoe, and together they travelled on. Hardly speaking a dozen words a day, they worked on up the Mackenzie, sleeping by turns, spending each other at the motor. Raising a blanket sail to a northeast wind, they scudded across the island-dotted lake from Resolution, and whipped up the Quatre Fourches delta toward Fort Smith.

Watching the dim, clouded stars above him, Alan looked steadily at the two girls who had loomed so large upon his manhood. In this last week a cataclysm had happened in his life, breaking into the old order, blasting the even routine of week and month and year. It had opened his eyes in a deeper way than ever before to the preciousness of his intimacy with Joyce, to the priceless quality of their former comradeship. Now, when it was irrevocable, he was asking himself whether the motive and powerful circumstance which had actuated him in a deeper way than ever before. Had not he and Joyce had a right to happiness? Had he, in his stern sacrifice, been blind to the needs of the human heart?

Tired out by days of incessant travel, he fell asleep at last, and dreamed that in his cabin it had been Joyce, not Elizabeth, whose arm had been around him and who was waiting for him when this lone adventure should be ended.

At Fort Smith the heavy rains had rendered the sixteen-mile portage impossible to teams and to the motor trucks which plied that stretch. Alan dared not wait; his days were too precious. In his decision to go on, his young Chipewyan friend stuck with him. Shouldering their craft, they plodded stoically across that slippery, red-clay stretch to Fitzgerald.

Among the north-bound crowd waiting there, he spotted the tall, slightly-stopped figure of Superintendent Williamson, who was going north to inspect the down-river posts. The superintendent was the last person in the world whom Alan wanted to meet. His first superior officer when he graduated from the "Aviation Squad," Williamson had been good to him and taken a fatherly interest in his brilliant work. What would he say when he learned that his protégé had bought out and deserted the Force?

"You—commission weren't forthcoming, so you quit? Your loyalty to our work went deeper than that?" In his eyes a quiver was worse than a gross incompetence.

Passing by, ten feet away, Williamson merely nodded slightly and said, "Good luck, Baker."

Alan understood. He thought: "In civilian clothes, so far away from Endurance. . . . He thinks I'm on some detective detail. Good Lord, when he finds I'm cut, bought out—"

Williamson's esteem was a precious thing to Alan, as precious as a father's. An impulse swept him to talk with the superintendent and tell him the whole story. But there was the matter of that signed affidavit. Alan refused to go back on that; and even if he did he would literally be branding himself a liar. What did his personal feud with Haskell matter now? He was out of the Mounted. And the superintendent would try to stop his venture if he heard, for it was beyond the law.

He allowed Williamson to go past. Setting their boat to water, he and the young Chipewyan hurried on to the great delta-mouth of the Peace, where they caught up with a steamer going on to McMurtry. The young Indian wanted to turn west to the Rockies and see the Land of Ice Mountains. Giving him the motor canoe and the outfit, Alan shook hands, said "Klhowwah," and went aboard the steamer.
